

Calls for proposal: Artist Consultant for Dignity Project Exhibition 2018

The Cambodian NGO Committee on CEDAW (NGO-CEDAW) is a not-for-profit organization based in Cambodia that is dedicated to women's human rights.

As part of the annual 16-day campaign against gender-based violence, which begins in late November, and the annual International Women's Day on 8 March, NGO-CEDAW is sponsoring the creation of art as a means of raising public awareness of the issues surrounding gender-based violence in Cambodia. NGO-CEDAW is also using this art as part of its ongoing advocacy efforts to amend the laws on domestic violence to provide better protection against gender-based violence.

NGO-CEDAW is inviting Cambodian artists to apply to participate in this year's Dignity Project. As a non-profit we offer a small stipend and will provide a platform for the artist to inspire Cambodians to change their attitudes and/or behavior connected to violence that targets women.

Scope of work:

If accepted to participate, the artist will specifically perform the following items of work:

1. Conceiving ideas for communicating to the public about the problem of gender-based violence;
2. Creating a work of art (which may include text, images, video, photographs, choreography, three-dimensional objects, or any combination of these) directly focused on the issue of gender-based violence in Cambodia.
3. Taking photos and video of the process of creating the artwork, which will be used internally and shared with the public via social media and/or printed materials for promotional purposes.
4. Complete sensitivity training to better work with survivors of gender-based violence;
5. Consulting with NGO-CEDAW on publication of the artwork online and exhibition of the artwork at one or more public venues.
6. Presenting artwork at the exhibition event.

Applications must include:

1. Biography of the artist(s) and anyone directly working on the artwork. (For example, if you are a group of performing artists, please list all performers and any managers, directors, or crewmembers.)
2. A description of the proposed artwork and how it concerns the topics of dignity and gender-based violence.
3. A budget proposal explaining how much (in Khmer riels or US dollars) the creation of the art will cost.
4. A short explanation of why you want to participate in the Dignity Project.

Applications may be made in Khmer or English.

Deadline for submitting an application: 15 August, 2018

Where to send application: Please apply by sending the above items to ngocedaw.pnh@gmail.com or in person to # 16, Street 99, Boeung trabek, Chamcamorn, Phnom Penh.
